

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to an agricultural machine for grouping products lying on the ground and in particular having a main frame (1) carrying two gathering devices (14 and 17) which are situated one beside the other during work and to which swathing devices (15 and 18) are associated and having separation means (35) situated in front of the inner ends adjacent to the gathering devices (14 and 17).